BULLOCH TIMES
AND STATESBORO NEWS

D. B. TURNER, Editor and Owner
Entered as second-class matter March 28, 1906, at the postoffice at Statesboro, Ga., under the Act of Congress March 3, 1879.

SOUTHLAND CORPORATIONS.

If the time comes when the railroad leaders really entertained the spirit accredited to one of their heads, "The people be d—d," that spirit is a thing of the past. The presence of high officials of the Central railroad among the patrons of their system, laying before them in heart-to-heart manner something of their business difficulties and asking for friendly aid in the solution of those difficulties, brings directly home to the people the proper realization that the railroad is for the public good, operated by men of human understanding and appreciation of the public rights.

In their tour of their system, which began Tuesday, Messrs. F. J. Robinson, W. H. Wright, H. D. Pollock and J. D. McCartney, officials of the Central, spent an hour before a crowd of Statesboro's representative business men Tuesday, their object being to establish a more thorough understanding of the conditions under which their road is being operated, with a view to eliciting the sympathetic interest of the patrons of the road. They explained that their system of roads operated last year at a total loss of approximately $1,000,000. For eighteen months the road had steadily continued to lose money on certain of its trains, hoping that the tide would change and that no serious curtailment of service would become necessary. They explained that the inevitable was staring the management in the face—the loss must stop or the road would be eventually thrown into bankruptcy. "What have you want," they asked, "a slightly restricted service or no service at all?"

What answer should have been given them but that which was—curtail expenses! After all, the railroads are but business concerns on a large scale. The thousands of stockholders in the road are entitled to the same return on their investment that the man of little business is to a profit on his time and talents. When the railroads are operating at a loss, they either cut expenses, go out of business or go broke. They are not compelled to ask anybody for permission to reduce wages; they do not plead for the right to increase prices; they do not even ask permission to discontinue service. They simply quit doing the thing they decide is unprofitable, and congratulate themselves that it is nobody's business.

When the railroads want to take off a train or change a schedule; when they want to reduce wages or increase rates, they are compelled to go before a governmental board, frequently born in unfriendliness, and pray for permission to carry their will into effect. They sometimes get part of what they ask for, and generally get more put on them than is taken off. In the late war time, the railroads were taken over by the government and their earning capacity restricted to a meager six per cent guarantee, while the bridge was off the profiters and they were restricted only by their opportunities and greed.

The roads are still staggering under the wage load with which they were burdened by government regulation, and are unable to save themselves because of the stagnation which has inevitably followed the period of reconstruction. The people are beginning to understand that the railroads have been over-regulated and are entitled to a little human treatment.

MONEY IN THE MOVIES.

The recent statement that Postmaster General Hayes is to take a position with the movies at a salary of $150,000 per year, opened the eyes of the public to the magnitude of this enterprise from a money standpoint. And some more big figures are going into the prints at the present time in connection with the offer of $1,000,000 for evidence to convict the murderer of W. D. Taylor, one of the movie directors, in Los Angeles, a few days ago.

It was only within the past third of a century that the moving picture was a new thing, calculated only to draw patronage from the women and children and idlers. The paltry nickels and dimes gathered in at the door seemed to fall far short of the big figures in which the movie heads talk at the present time.

If there is anything absolutely useless in the world, certainly the moving picture business cannot be placed in that class. Anything which can grow to the proportions it has attained, ed, certainly serves some purpose in the human economy. It at least gives the people an opportunity to spend the cash which they might otherwise be at a loss to spend; it helps to support the government through the system of taxation which is applied to it, and then it gives opportunity to spend time which otherwise might be worse than uselessly spent. If we forget the conditions which have given rise to all this million dollar talk—the murder of one of their leaders, and the disclosure of the pink nighties which were said to have been kept in the backroom quarters of the man who was slain—and forget that most of the publicity attaching to the moving picture industry in the recent past has been of the fatty Arbuckle variety, there might be ample grounds to admire an enterprise which could spring such income to the man who sheds a while as the movie industry has been able to do.

WATERMELONS AND SEEDS
USED FOR MANY PURPOSES

In its studies of the control of watermelon diseases, the United States department of agriculture has found that there are numerous uses for watermelons outside of their consumption as a popular fruit. Housewives have long been familiar with pickles and preserves made from watermelon rind. In China and other oriental countries watermelon seed is used as a table delicacy. Seedsmen in this country not only ship seed for this purpose, but also find a market for their product in the Chinese districts of New York and San Francisco. This liking for the seed is evidently not restricted to the orient for some years ago a well-known explorer reported an African tribe that sharpened their teeth in order to better strip the hulls from watermelon seeds. Within recent years a firm in Alabama has undertaken to manufacture vinegar from the juice, and from Russia come reports that during the past few years of hardship concentrated watermelon juice has been used in place of sugar to sweeten coffee.

The production of watermelon seed is an industry by itself. In a single county in Florida, approximately 7,000 acres of watermelons are grown annually for seed purposes. This one section supplies a great proportion of the watermelon seed planted in the United States, and on occasion also ships to foreign planters. In recent years shipments of seed for planting have been made to Texas, Asia Minor, to China and other far-distant points.

During past years profits in our southern watermelon industry have been severely cut, due to the effect of several destructive diseases. Anthracnose, a fungus disease of the foliage and fruit, means reduced yield and pock-marked melons, that rot in the field and in the freight car. Stem-end rot is a trouble that occurs in transit only, and originates with infection of the melon by the causal organism at the cut stem. Anthracnose is controlled by spraying the vines; stem-end rot by the practice of field sanitation and stem treatment. Plans are being made by the department of agriculture to assist growers, distributors, and shippers in the proper application of disease-control measures during the coming season.

CARNIVAL COMPANY TO TRAVEL FROM SAVANNAH
Savannah, Feb. 8.—Savannah is preparing to send out what is practically its own carnival company this spring and summer. The Rubin and Cherry Shows have wintered in Savannah at the fair grounds site and they are now putting things in shape for a return to the road. There have been many hundreds of visitors to the fair grounds during the winter to see the animals and the carnival folks in winter quarters. When the Savannah fair opens this October the Rubin and Cherry Shows will have worked back here and will provide the carnival attractions for the event. There are a great number of queer things in connection with the show, including monkeys, reindeer and animals of the freak character. It has been a unique experience for Savannah to entertain a carnival company of several hundred people during the winter. Christmas dinner was a big event with the show people and there have been other gala occasions. It is expected the first show of the new season will be given in Savannah and the last one when the company comes back for the fair. This has grown to be one of the biggest carnivals in the United States and it has bookings through the Northwest as well as through the South.

BIG GROWERS SIGN
CO-OPERATIVE PLAN

ONE GEORGIAN POOLS 1275
BALES—ARKANSAS SIGNS THE LARGEST CONTRACT.

Atlanta, Feb. 6.—The largest grower who has thus far joined the co-operative cotton marketing movement in Georgia, is A. P. Dunaway of Oglethorpe county, who signed the five-year legally-binding contract for 1,275 bales.

A score or more contracts of 200 bales each have been recorded on the books of the Georgia association. Worley Adams of Franklin county, and J. M. Burns of Jenkins county, signed the contract for their entire production of 500 bales.

The largest co-operative marketing contract ever signed is reported by the American Cotton Growers' Exchange, which is co-operating with the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-Operative Association in getting up the pooling movement in this state. The contract was for 3,700 bales, grown in Mississippi county, Arkansas, by Walter Driver. Much of the cotton represented by this contract is of the long staple variety, so that the actual value is something over half a million dollars.

While Mr. Driver's contract is the largest ever signed, scores of other big ones have been signed in all parts of the country. The second largest was for 3,000 bales, signed by J. S. Wannamaker of South Carolina. A third large one was for 1,700 bales, the production of two Arkansas plantations belonging to Frank O. Lowden, prominent figure in the last Presidential election.

HOUSEWORK IS A BURDEN.
Woman's lot is a weary one at best. But with backache and other distressing kidney ills it is indeed becoming a burden. Doan's Kidney Pills have made life brighter for many Statesboro women. Read what Mrs. J. H. Mock, 48 N. Main St., Statesboro, says: "Some time ago I was suffering an awful lot with my kidneys. My back ached from morning until night. I was so lame and stiff I could hardly get around. I bent over to dust or sweep, a sharp pain would catch me in my back and nearly floor me. Dirty smells would come over me and at times black specks would float before my eyes, blurring my sight. I used Doan's Kidney Pills at this time, which I bought at Ellis' Drug Store. They relieved me of all the trouble. I have used Doan's occasionally since as a preventive and they keep my kidneys in good shape." 50c at all dealers. Foster-McMillan Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. (No. 11)

NOTICE.
Just a few lines to my customers and friends: I wish to state right here that we are doing all we can at all times to give the best service we can but unless we have the help of our milk customers in cleaning and getting out bottles each night, it makes it very hard on us, as it is expensive to have so much money invested in bottles; and there is no one that realizes the expense of any business until they experience it.

In spite of the tight times of getting money, our expenses are getting higher, as bottles and caps have advanced, caps 50 per cent, bottles 25 per cent and gasoline about 20 per cent, although we are retailing milk every day, rain or shine, at the same prices as before the World War.

Now, there is no business that can continue to run and prosper losing money. Hoping you will all consider what we have said and help us in our expense as it will benefit each of us.

Thanking you for your past patronage and soliciting more in the future
Yours truly,
AKINS DAIRY.

TO HAVE THIRD TRIAL
FOR "FATTY" ARBUCKLE

JURY IN SECOND TRIAL COULD NOT AGREE—TEN TO TWO FOR CONVICTION.

San Francisco, Feb. 4.—The jury in the second trial of a manslaughter charge against Roscoe C. Arbuckle decided at the conclusion of a forty-four-hour session that it could not agree and was discharged yesterday with a final ballot standing ten for conviction and two for acquittal.

Arbuckle was accused of having caused the death of Miss Virginia Rappe of Los Angeles, a motion picture actress who was taken ill at a drinking party in Arbuckle's suite here at the Hotel St. Francis on Labor Day, 1921, and died four days later as the result of a ruptured bladder.

The case was placed on the calendar for next Monday to be set for its third trial. Both prosecution and defense agreed that they would favor such trial. So sure was the defense of its position in the second trial that it submitted its case without final argument. This had an effect opposite from the one intended, according to Nate Friedman, one of the jurors in a formal statement.

"We thought that when the defense declined to argue it had thrown up its hands," he said. The first ten ballots stood nine to three for conviction and thereafter until the fourth and final ballot it was ten to two.

Arbuckle appeared to be somewhat downcast by the disagreement. Members of his family were so visibly perturbed that it was some moments before they greeted him or his attorneys after the result was known.

When the jurors returned to court yesterday they looked haggard and worn. The lone woman juror, Mrs. Mary H. Somers, was visibly nervous. A crowded court room heard the result.

In spite of my own personal conviction, it was my intention to be guided by the opinion of a majority of the jury," District Attorney Brady said. "Had the majority of the jury been in favor of an acquittal, I would have asked for a dismissal. As the jury stood ten for conviction to two for acquittal, it is manifestly my duty to try the case again."

BLANCHE BLAIR

REGINA MCCABE and RICHARD LEARY

THAT is a wonderful medicine for delicate children is conclusively proven by the remarkable results accomplished in the cases of three children shown in this picture.

Little Blanche Blair, of Providence, R. I., age 13, gained 10 pounds; Regina McCabe, age 9, of Scranton, Pa., gained 15 pounds; little Richard Leary, Jr., of Philadelphia, who was very delicate, is now in the robust health. The statements made by their parents are as follows:

Mr. A. M. Blair, residing at 20 Atwood street, Providence, R. I., said: "We are just so happy over the change made in our little girl that we can't do or say enough to show our appreciation. She had lost nearly 20 pounds in weight and looked so frail and weak that her mother and I were both a most worried sick over her condition. Since taking Tanlac, she has already gained 10 pounds, her color is better than it ever has been and she looks and acts like a different girl."

Mrs. Catherine McCabe, 414 Dickens avenue, Scranton, Pa., said: "The little girl I have been told of in such a bad condition that I have no idea she would be with me now if it hadn't been for Tanlac. It is a mystery to me how she lived on the little she was eating and was so lifeless she never cared to play with the dolls and toys she got at Christmas. Since taking Tanlac she is as hardy and well as any child could be and has gained 15 pounds in weight. I will always praise Tanlac for restoring our little girl's health."

Richard Leary, 2342 Palmetto St., Philadelphia, said: "There is no doubt in my mind but that Tanlac saved my little boy's life. For two years I wouldn't have been a bit surprised to have seen him drop off at any time. He had stomach trouble and many a time the gas pressed up his chest until his heart palpitated. Only when he was given Tanlac did he breathe but a few more gasps. But Tanlac gave him back to us strong and well and we will praise it to our dying day."

NOTE—Tanic Vegetable Pills are an essential and vitally important part of Tanlac treatment. You can not hope to get the most satisfactory results from Tanlac without first establishing a free and regular movement of the bowels. Tanlac Vegetable Pills are absolutely free from calomel and are sold on a positive guarantee to give satisfaction. Since taking Tanlac's Wonderful Remedy all this has disappeared and my only trouble now is to make enough dough to buy all the food I'd like to eat. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. FARMERS HIT HARDER THAN ANYBODY ELSE

CROPS SHOW MOST DRASTIC DROP IN VALUES RECORDED IN ANY AMERICAN INDUSTRY.

Atlanta, Feb. 6.—The federal bureau of markets and crop estimates, according to figures just received by the state agricultural department, reports that the average value per acre of the ten principal crops of the United States fell from $21.23 in 1919 to $14.52 in 1921. Thus they lost 33 per cent of their value. This is regarded here as the most drastic drop in values recorded in any American industry during the deflation period.

It is to be remembered, too, according to officials of the state agricultural department, that the farmer's low price crop of last year cost him almost as much to produce as his high-price crop of 1919. And what is more to the point, agricultural department officials say, while he has lost less than half as much for what he had to sell, he has to pay almost as much as ever for most of the things he has had to buy.

The inflation of land values, of which so much was made during the boom, it is pointed out here, has done the real farmer more harm than good. Only owners who were lucky enough to sell at the crest of the wave and get their money have profited. Buyers, working the costly land at a loss, have gone broke. Those who kept their land and continued farming it themselves have had their taxes raised.

The larger investment makes a heavier overhead and less profit. "And yet many people seem to be contented, and are demanding more consideration for themselves as an economic class, in respect to easier bank credit and other economic support," said an agricultural leader here.

PLUMBER THOUGHT HE NEEDED NEW PIPES

"My stomach and intestines were always full of gas and I often had severe colic attacks. The pain and soreness caused me to think I needed a new set of pipes. Central of Georgia Railway Points to Its Record, of Passenger Service

The existence of a railway is justified by its ability to serve the public with transportation. The measure of its service is the measure of its worth. The Central of Georgia invites the attention of the public to some of those things which are indicative of its capacity for efficient transportation service.

Much depends upon personnel. As an organization the Central of Georgia is composed of a body of more than ten thousand faithful and efficient workers. Its officers have advanced through the ranks of the service, thus acquiring the practical experience for intelligent supervision. The efforts of the organization are concentrated upon making the Central of Georgia the outstanding railway in the south. American railways have long held and continue to hold the leadership of the world in efficient transportation service and it is our ambition to make our railroad as good as any in America.

Much depends upon equipment. Up-to-date and well maintained equipment is essential to passenger service of the high type that the Central of Georgia Railway strives to give at all times. For years the Central of Georgia Railway has been a leader among the railroads of the south in adding to its equipment, keeping its equipment in first class condition and developing its roadway facilities.

All of the main line trains, and many of the trains on branch lines have steel or vestibuled cars. Such cars are expensive, but they are a generally recognized factor for the safety and comfort of passengers.

The excellence of equipment is not confined to passenger coaches—but this railway also operates its own sleeping cars. These are of the most modern construction, excelled by none, and are in charge of employees, who through years in our employ, have been trained to cheerful service.

The passenger on the Central of Georgia Railway is assured of a safe comfortable trip in a car of good construction and modern convenience, over a smooth-riding track of heavy rails and ties, fully ballasted and well-maintained, hauled by a locomotive of sufficient power and in such condition to give every assurance of scheduled movement.

For the most part, each locomotive is regularly assigned to the same engineer, who takes a personal pride in its condition. This is believed to be one of the reasons for the small number of engine failures on the Central of Georgia Railway, a record is outstanding among the railways of the south.

The regularity with which Central of Georgia passenger trains maintain their schedule indicates the high order of our passenger service. During 1921 the Central of Georgia Railway operated upon its 1914 miles of track 33,839 passenger trains of which 33,456, or 98.7 per cent, were on time. This exceeds even the remarkable record of 1920 when 95 per cent of the trains were on time.

The record by months for the two years follows:

Month	1920	1921
January	90.4	97.6
February	93.0	97.6
March	92.7	98.2
April	92.8	98.8
May	96.7	98.6
June	97.1	98.6
July	96.6	98.6
August	95.5	99.4
September	97.0	99.4
October	97.4	99.4
November	96.2	99.1
December	95.9	98.4
AVERAGE	95.0	98.7

The only record showing the percentage of on time arrival at destination of passenger trains on all railways was made by the United States Railroad Administration for the months of August, September, October and November, 1921. The average of on time arrivals for all railways for those four months was 83.2 per cent. The average for the Central of Georgia during those four months was 92.1 per cent. Comparison but emphasizes the excellence of our record, considered either in connection with other roads or with our own past achievements.

The patrons of the Central of Georgia Railway find courteous and sympathetic attention in every department. Employees take great pride in our reputation for courtesy.

Service is now the only basis of competition among the railroads. Since rates are standardized the Central of Georgia (cannot offer rate bargains to command patronage but it can offer—and it is constantly developing—the organization, equipment and facilities for unusual service.

Constructive criticism and suggestion are invited.

W. A. WINBURN,

President, Central of Georgia Railway Company.
